A needle.
An humble stick of
iron,
a sparkle,
an eye.

It pricks.

If you accept to
understand it,
if you accept its
service, its smile,
it opens its paths
docile at your desires.

It follows a winding path,
leaves a long track behind it,
a white track, or black, or colored.

A track which connects, which transforms different parts in a unique superior whole.

Transforms pieces of material in one robe.
Connects the two margins of a wound.

Then it retires apart, serene, smiling, watching the result of its actions.

A visage appears on your life, a smile, it pricks, it leaves a track, it sews your feelings, those of the others.
